RESEARCH

New Research Reporting Project to Begin Phased Implementation This Summer

Research Services and ITS have collaborated on a Research Reporting

Project to develop an integrated and robust reporting solution for the Mason research community to support data driven decision making. The first phase of reports is scheduled to be delivered shortly after the RAMP implementation later this summer. The new reporting system will allow for the integration of data from multiple sources, such as RAMP and Banner, and will utilize the Microstrategy reporting tool. Some reports, such as the Current and Pending report, will be available directly in the RAMP system. A wide range of research reporting and analysis capabilities will be supported including managing sponsored activity, monitoring research project performance, tracking faculty support, and reviewing trends. Email questions about the research reporting project to RAMP@gmu.edu.
